General

INDEX

TO THE

THIRTEENTH VOLUME

OF THE

SOUTHERN QUARTERLY REVIEW.

A.

Adams, John, the administration of, the cause of the party division of Federalists and Democrats, 250; ephemeral character of his measures, 252.

Almagro, see Peru.

B.

Benton, Thomas H., Speech of, in Senate, on the failure of the Lieut. General Bill, 18.

British Reviewers and the U. S., 187—225; English and American slavery compared, 197; the Canada rebellion, with Sir Francis Head's account of it, 204; the Mexican war and the English press, 207; British wars in India and China, 216—224.

Byron, Appleton's edition of, noticed, 264; the critics and the poets, 266.

C.

Capsa, the siege of, as illustrating the value of secresy and celerity in military operations, 24.

Chapman, J. R., treatise on the Rifle by, noticed, 511.

China, British war with, 217; New Route to, reviewed, 347—361; policy of the Government in regard the Navy, 349; cost of a steam navy, 351; merchant steam-ships, 352; progress in the establishment of ocean mail steamers, 353; the shortest route to China, 354; the canal across Darien, and Tehuantepec, 355; superiority of a railroad across the continent to California, 358; line of steamers across the Pacific, 365; hydrographical survey of the California coast, 370.

Clarke, Alvan, improvements in the rifle by, 514.

Coleridge, S. T., Literary Biography of, noticed, 527.

Constantinople, siege of, as described by a Turkish historian, 71.

Cotton, growth and consumption of, reviewed, 103—136; distribution of production, 106; of manufacture, 107; character of the cotton planters, 109; variety of Southern products, 112; limitation of the cotton-growing region, 117; capital employed in the culture, 121; extent of the market for cotton, 124; East India attempts to compete with the U. S., 129.

D.

Davids, Grammar of the Turkish language by, reviewed, 54.

E.

Eleoutian Islands, position of, as a depot for Pacific Steam-ships, 368.
Ellis, Henry, succeeds Reynolds as Governor of Georgia, 500.

F.

Foxes of North America, 403—426; species and varieties, 404; the Cross Fox, 418; the moral character of Reynard, 415; the Gray Fox, 417; origin of the pointer dog, 419; Fox-hunting in the South, 420.

G.

Gallatin, Albert, pamphlet by, on peace with Mexico, noticed, 226.
Georgia, Stevens' History of, reviewed, 470—501; object of Oglethorpe and others in projecting the colony of Georgia, 472; Oglethorpe assisted by South-Carolina, 374; energy and success of his proceedings, 476; growth of the colony, 478; Oglethorpe makes war on the Spaniards, 480; invades Florida, 482; his failure before St. Augustine, and the causes, 484; dissatisfaction of the South-Carolinians, 489; invasion of Georgia by the Spaniards, 491; able conduct and success of Oglethorpe, 494; retreat of the Spaniards, 497; general merits of Stevens' History, 499.

H.

Halleck, Fitz-Greene, poetical works of, noticed, 268.
Head, Sir Francis, the Emigrant, by, reviewed, 187.
Hull, Gen. William, life of, noticed, 502; revolutionary career of, 505; personal character of, 509; his campaign of 1812, 510.

I.

Ireland's Welcome to the Stranger, by Mrs. Nicholson, noticed, 237.
Ida Norman, reviewed, 331.

J.

Jefferson, Thomas, fondness of, for political scandal, 248; permanence of the measures and principles of, 254.
Jugurtha, life of, and wars with the Romans, 1—54.

K.

King, Hon. Thomas Butler, Reports of, on naval affairs, reviewed, 347.

L.

Letters from Georgia to Massachusetts, noticed, 256.

M.

Marius supersedes Metellus in the command of the army in Africa, 34; his arts of popularity, 35.
Marlborough, Duke of,—his military maxims and conduct, 27.
Maury, Lieut. M. F., letter of, to Hon. T. B. King, 354.
McKenzie, Henry, miscellaneous works of, reviewed, 78.
Medical Dictionary, Gardner's, noticed, 270.
Metellus commands the Roman army against Jugurtha, 12; his system of war, 17; is superseded, 34; his character, 43.
Monterey, position of, in the line of direct trade with China, 367.
Montiano, don Miguel de, Governor of Florida, defends St. Augustine against Oglethorpe, 482; invades Georgia, 494.

N.

Nicholson, Mrs., travels in Ireland by, noticed, 237.

O.

Oglethorpe, see Georgia.

P.

Panama, Isthmus of, examined as a route to China, 355.

Peru, Conquest of, by Prescott, reviewed, 136—187 and 273—330; character of the author as a historian, 138; discoveries preliminary to that of Peru by the Spaniards, 143; Francis Pizarro—his rise, treachery to Vasco Nunez; his first attempt on Peru, 148; is relieved by Almagro, 151; quarrel of the leaders, 155; Pizarro abandoned by all but 13 of his soldiers, 157; examines the coasts of Peru, 158; returns to Spain and receives the royal commission of conquest, 161; invades Peru, 166; resolves to march against the Inca, 167; meeting of the hostile chiefs, 169; slaughter of the Peruvians and seizure of the Inca, 175; his trial and execution, 180; Pizarro raises Manco to the throne, 183; description of Cuzco and its sack by the Spaniards, 183—7; Alvarado invades Quito, 276; Pizarro is confirmed in his conquests by Spain, 278; second quarrel of Almagro and Pizarro, 280; escape of Manco and revolt of the Peruvians, 283; Cuzco besieged by the Indians, ibid; Almagro returns from Chili and surprises Cuzco; defeat and death of Almagro; persecution of his friends, 295; Hernando Pizarro goes to Spain and is imprisoned, 296; Gonzalo Pizarro's expedition to the "land of cinnamon," 297—301; assassination of Francis Pizarro, 303; young Almagro proclaimed Governor, 305; proceedings of the royal commissioner, Vaca de Castro, 304—7; defeat and death of Almagro, 311; a Viceroy arrives in Peru, 313; Gonzalo Pizarro resists, and is made governor, 316; Pedro de la Gasca made President, 321; prepares to invade Peru, 323; battle of Huarina and death of Pizarro, 325—330.

Public Men of the Revolution, Sketches of, by William Sullivan, noticed, 245—256.

R.

Railroads, History and Economy of, reviewed, 372—402; antiquity of rail tracks, 374; first use of iron rails, 375; carriages, 376; invention of the locomotive, 377; its first successful use, 379; the first railroads in the United States, 380; sketch of our railroads, 382; of those of Europe, 386; economy and safety of railroads, 390; their effect upon the general prosperity, 396.

Reynolds, John, first Royal Governor of Georgia, 500.

Rifle, the American, Chapman's treatise on, noticed, 511.

S.

Sallust, History of the Jugurthine war, by, reviewed, 1—54.

Santa Anna, General, compared to Varro, 21.

Simms, W. G., Views and Reviews in American Literature, by, noticed, 520.

Swedenborg, Emanuel, philosophical works of, reviewed, 427; causes of the neglect of his writings, 428; his rank as a philosopher, 432; events of his life, 433; his discoveries in science, 440; distinctive features of his system, 443.

Spencer, Rev. J. A.,—new Greek reading book, by, noticed, 529.

Stevens, Rev. W. B., History of Georgia by, reviewed, 470.

T.

Taylor, General, political position and popularity of, 39—44.

Tehuantepec, Isthmus of, examined in reference to a ship-canal, 355.

Turkish Language, David's Grammar of, reviewed, 54—78; origin of the nation, 55; euphonic principles of the language, 59; grammatical construction, 63; Turkish literature, 68—77.

V.

Vander Dussen commands the Carolina regiment in Oglethorpe's invasion of Florida, 488.

W.

War and its incidents, reviewed, 1—54; points of similarity between the Jugurthine and Mexican wars, 5; origin of the former, 8; conduct of Metellus, 12—17; Jugurtha's system of guerrilla war compared with the Mexicans, 23; secresy of the Roman military movements, compared with our own, 24—28; rivalry of Metellus and Marius, 19—38; concluding scenes of the Jugurthine war, 47.

Wesson, Edmond, improvements in the American rifle by, 514.

Z.

Zama, siege of, by Metellus, 24.